

Revised Operational COVID Guidelines - General

This guidance is intended to assist Calvert County residents, business owners, workers and visitors at this moment in time. Our guiding principles are as follows:

Marylanders should continue to practice physical distancing.

Marylanders should continue to wear face coverings or masks in indoor public places, and outdoors when physical distancing is not possible.

As vaccines become available, every eligible person should get inoculated to speed our community's return to normal.

Employers and employees should continue with telework plans, if reasonable.

It is important that all of our actions in the near future are consistent with these guiding principles. Changing the way in which a business or venue operates is a major undertaking. Below we have a collection of general ideas that businesses or owners should take into consideration when developing business-specific plans for modifying operations.

- » Appropriate signage has been posted around the facility and grounds to relay the messaging about social distancing, face coverings, and handwashing.
- » Politely and consistently enforce mask wearing for staff and customers.
- » All staff able to telework will continue to and plans are in place, if reasonable.
- » Adequate handwashing stations are available for workers or hand sanitizer is available.
- » Where necessary, employees have been trained on the proper use of the necessary PPE (covers both mouth and nose).
- » A plan is in place for regular cleaning and sanitizing of high contact surfaces. Gloves are available and worn by the designated employee responsible for cleaning high contact surfaces.
- » Social distancing markers (6 feet apart) in areas where customers may form lines or congregate.
- » A plan is in place for employee wellness checks. Have a secure location to store these documents.

Requirements may change at any point contingent on health necessities or new directives from the Governor's Office.*
